The Franklin Mountains, El Paso, Texas.

Scott, the 2015 Chair of the Texas Association of REALTORS® grew up in a small Texas oil town called Ira, which is outside of Snyder, another small town. “The joke is, I was in the top 10 of my high school graduating class – there were only eight,” Kesner said. He earned a bachelor’s degree in criminal justice from Sul Ross State University, which is where he met and married Paula. Kesner worked as an adult probation officer for three and a half years in his hometown before moving to El Paso, his wife’s hometown, and getting his real estate license. He has been involved in various capacities with the Texas Association of REALTORS®, for more than a decade. He has been inducted into the National REALTOR® Political Action Committee Hall of Fame and was a trustee for the Texas Real Estate Political Action Committee from 2005 to 2008. He also teaches at the Academy of Real Estate in El Paso.
