The Grand Tetons

Ted has been a part of Jackson Hole for more than 30 years, with his parents and grandparents having lived in this Valley since the early 1940s. Ted knows and loves the area. After graduating from Brigham Young University with a degree in Business and Psychology, as well as being a 4-year Varsity letterman for the football team, he went on to be a consultant facilitator for Franklin Covey Leadership Center, in Australia. After seeing a unique opportunity there, he and his wife started an importing business, which handled national distribution for Hershey's and Nabisco products and that is where he learned the fine art of saying "Mate". Upon returning to Jackson he partnered with his mother, who has been one of the top brokers in the Valley for many years. With that background and his knowledge of the area, he and his team have become one of the top producers in this wonderful setting.
