Summertime in Stowe, Vermont

Before joining Ken in real estate, Bunny spent a large part of her career as a full-time emergency room nurse at Copley Hospital in Morrisville. For about 20 years, Bunny was an adjunct professor at Johnson State College as well as being the director of the health center on campus. Bunny's main current job, besides everything else she does, including providing free health care to Ken, is to head up the Building and Grounds Committee of St. John's in the Mountains, Episcopal Church in Stowe. "This is a great personal satisfaction!" Bunny also was a member of the Mt. Mansfield Ski Patrol, a long-time member of the Stowe Recreation

Commission and a founding member of the Stowe Rescue Squad. She also has an associate's degree as a legal nurse consultant. Bunny and her husband, Ken, moved to Stowe in 1968. They have raised three children in the Stowe school system and now are the proud grandparents of seven grandchildren. Bunny's interests include most sports (Go Red Sox!), skiing (most of the time), golfing, gardening, visiting the grandchildren in New York, Vermont and Michigan, traveling and working on her master's degree in alternative health.
